Exhibition overview

The programme is designed to attract a wide audience of experts from across Europe and beyond. The ECO is a hugely important event, providing an excellent platform for scientific exchange, debate and dissemination between research and health professionals working in obesity. As the leading European meeting in the scientific and educational arena of obesity, the ECO programme attracts delegates working in a range of areas including discovery science, public health/prevention, childhood obesity and clinical management. The programme, developed by a committee of European experts, is enhanced by special EASO Task Force teaching sessions and practical workshops. There will also be special sessions for the recently established EASO Patent Council.
