Exhibition overview

The European Respiratory Society (ERS) is the leading professional organisation in its field in Europe. It is broad-based, with some 10,000 members in over 100 countries. Its scope covers both basic science and clinical medicine. The society seeks to alleviate suffering from respiratory disease and promote lung health through research, sharing of knowledge and through medical and public education. It aims to achieve this by:

- Publishing research and state-of-the-art knowledge in its journals
- Bringing together specialists in the field of respiratory medicine at its annual congress and other specialist events.

In 2014, the annual congress will take place in September in Munich, Germany.
