Exhibition overview

The Society for Cardiothoracic Surgery in Great Britain and Ireland (SCTS) was founded in 1934. The aims of the SCTS are:

1. To continuously improve the quality of healthcare that our members deliver to patients in an open and accountable manner
2. To ensure that we influence the direction of education and development of surgeons-in -training and related health care professionals
3. Ensure that regulation when required is fit for purpose
4. To meet the professional demands of our members as regards information and guidance surrounding the practice of cardiothoracic surgery
5. Support education and professional development through Society scholarships and bursaries.
6. Represent GB & Ireland in cardiothoracic surgery at an international level to foster exchange of concepts and ideas which may enhance our practice,

The SCTS has an annual meeting in March attracting health professionals involved in cardiothoracic surgery from the UK and overseas. An important feature over recent meetings has been the development of the Cardiothoracic Forum, which is designed to focus on cardiothoracic practice and encourages non-medically qualified members of the cardiothoracic team to make contributions. The SCTS also has a growing patient involvement and patients who have undergone cardiothoracic surgery have been invited to attend the meetings.
