Exhibition overview

The purpose of the European Association of Perinatal Medicine (EAPM) is to bring together groups and individuals in a European organisation to promote the science of perinatal medicine for the benefit of mothers and their children in Europe, in particular by:

- Promoting and disseminating the study, research and knowledge of all aspects of perinatal medicine, to attain the optimal physical and mental health for mothers and their children by improving the quality and provision of perinatal care in Europe;
- Contributing to the improvement of teaching standards in the profession;
- Proposing guidelines and standardising criteria for auditing, evaluation and clinical care in perinatal medicine;
- Fostering collaboration between the various disciplines interested in perinatal care as well as friendship between individuals from different European Countries

The principal event that the EAPM organises is the Congress of the European Association of Perinatal Medicine. This is held every two years in a major European city. In 2014, it will take place in Florence, Italy in June.
