Exhibition overview

The Society's annual meetings are the premier venue for clinicians, scientists, advocates, patients and carers to meet, present and learn about new evidence on the etiology and treatment of mood disorders and exchange ideas for the future. Since 2012, the Society has decided to increase the number and geographical location of the meetings in order to reach as many interested parties as possible and facilitate attendance. Meetings will take place on alternate years at North American sites and at destinations worldwide.

This, the 18th Annual Conference, is being held jointly with the 8th Biennial Conference of the International Society for Affective Disorders.
